eSecurity and eCrime seminar

Thursday 19 and Friday 20 July 2001

Grace Hotel 77 York Street

Presented by

BAKER & MCKENZIE
Cyberspace Law and Policy Centre

Programme

eSecurity is a high priority in an environment of increased risk. The expansion of eCommerce and government online increases exposure to fraud, denial-of-service attacks and viruses. Australian governments are reacting with new computer crime laws, and new strategies to improve security, detection and enforcement. International cooperation is moving toward a global cybercrime Convention. Balancing privacy and other civil liberties with effective law enforcement is essential but always contentious. This Seminar brings together experts from key government agencies (Austrac, AFP, ASIC, NOIE, and Commonwealth Attorney-General's), the legal profession, Universities and civil liberties organisations in a unique examination of how Australia can move toward eSecurity, reduce eCrime and protect individual rights.

The programme consists of a series of quality short courses assisting lawyers, accountants, financial planners, executives and other professionals whose work demands up-to-date knowledge of, and skills in, the relevant areas.

Mandatory CLE Units – NSW solicitors who find any of our programmes relevant to their immediate or long term needs in relation to their professional development and practice of law may claim MCLE units for their attendance at the seminars.

Postgraduate Accreditation – The Faculty approves advanced standing for completion of some CLE courses. Provided an assessment is satisfactorily completed, participants may be able to credit this seminar as part of a course leading to credit toward the LLM, MLM or Grad Dip Law. The credit is equivalent to one half of one subject. Contact us or visit our website for further information.
